Preface

The San José Historical Museum Association was formed to provide citizens with a means of participating in the growth and development of the San José Museum complex. Members may actively participate in museum plans and construction, attend special educational and cultural programs, assist in acquiring and discovering historical items, or participate in special activities sponsored by the organization and museum staff. Volunteers from the association guide school tours, refinish furniture, catalog parts of the collection, and are actively involved in promoting the museum throughout the community.

The museum serves over 200,000 school children in the area with classes making daily tours of the museum during the school year. There have been over 30,000 visitors at the museum since its opening. In order to accommodate this large number of visitors approximately 90 volunteers from the community have contributed over 5,000 hours of their time.

Several buildings are either completed or under construction in the Historical Park. These include the Print Shop, Umbarger House, and Doctor's Office. The museum has been awarded $300,000 in federal revenue sharing funds which will be used for more new construction in the Historical Park.

The Association presently has a membership of over 200. We invite all members of the public to join the Association and experience the thrill of the museum commemorating our colorful history.

Introduction

The San José City Directory and Business Guide of Santa Clara County was largely the work of San José City Clerk John Colahan and Julian Pomeroy, operator of a sewing machine emporium. Colahan and his merchant friends had been pushing for several years for a city directory. The resulting publication included not only San José, but also a greater part of the county.

The directory is composed of several sections, each of great use to the researcher. San José city officers, and the Annual Report for the year ending December 31, 1869, are included. (At this time, the city government used the calendar year as the annual reporting period.)

Under the heading of "City Officers", you will note the name of John Pieper, surveyor, engineer, and one of the giants of San José. Pieper, a highly educated German immigrant, came to this country in 1867. He pushed through a sewer program for a city of 100,000 inhabitants at a time when San José's population was only 12,000. It was only after World War II that this system reached capacity.

You will note the city's original cemetery was established in 1847 at 11th and Williams Streets. Few, if any, burials were made at this location, for the cemetery was moved to Oak Hill in 1848. The city transferred Oak Hill to private ownership in 1913.

The revenue from the numerous advertisements of the directory paid for the greatest cost of its printing. These ads, indexed on page 9, provide an interesting insight into the businesses and business practices of the day. Notice that no two lines of advertising type are the same. Some of it is highly ornate; some quite plain. The students of typography will have a field-day in these early directory advertisements.

These ads also provide valuable information to the historical researcher about the proprietors, products or services, and locations of business houses, both in San José and Santa Clara County. For instance, the Cameron's Hotel advertisement on page 30 states that it is the "Terminus San José and Santa Clara Horse Railroad."

The directory refers to several "blocks" in locating businesses. A block, as used in the directory, was not a city block as we think of one defined by four streets. Neither was it a surveyor's block, which would be a subdivision of that city block, but was usually a large building. For example, we had the Knox Block on the northwest corner of First and Santa Clara Streets. The big hotels were houses, and when we read of a public house we musn't get the wrong idea.

The largest section of the directory lists residents, generally giving their occupations and business and residence addresses. Customarily, only the man, as head of the household, was listed. For this reason, few women are shown.

The next section is a street directory. Street numbering was different in 1870 from what it is now. North and south streets began with zero at Rosa Street (now Hedding). On reaching Santa Clara street the numbering had increased to 300. The east-west streets started at the western city limits and at First Street the numbers also had reached 300.

The last section is a collection of business directories for neighboring towns such as Santa Clara, Gilroy and Alviso.

These and a host of other details make the City Directory indispensable to the researcher in local history. The San José Historical Museum Association is to be commended for making this work available to its members.

PREFATORY.

In presenting this first edition of the San Jose Directory to the public, the publishers flatter themselves that its statistics and references are as full as can be expected, under the circumstances, in a work of this character. Some trifling inaccuracies may have occurred which will be corrected in a future issue. We are unable to furnish a map in this edition. Owing to the rapid growth of the city, the present Official Map is entirely insufficient, and would prove for the most part useless. A new map, however, is being compiled by the City Surveyor, Mr. J. H. Pieper, and will be completed this year.

We have appended an alphabetical list of streets and avenues with an index to the numbering, showing at a glance the relative location of numbers throughout the entire city, which must answer for a map this time.

Of the rapid, unequaled, and surprising growth of San Jose—of its splendid and incomparable opportunities and advantages for education—delightfully mild climate, and many attractive surroundings—we do not purpose to enlarge. We invite those from abroad, who have but heard of the "Eden of California," to come and judge for themselves; to visit our well-built, commodious colleges and public schools; to drive out into the surrounding country and examine our woolen factories, our vineyards, orchards, granaries, and vegetable gardens; to cast a passing glance on our door yards and ever-blooming arbors—and then decide. We are unequal to the task: for no pen except that of a Moore can paint the truth.

Improved Order of Red Men.

This organization is a secret, benevolent, and protective society, like the similar co-fraternities—the Masonic and Odd Fellows. It claims to be purely American in its origin and growth, though there is indisputable evidence of the existence of a similar society prior to and during the revolutionary war; yet the present organization deems it unimportant to go back farther than the war of 1812–13, during which it was organized in Fort Mifflin on the Delaware River, by Capt. James N. Barker and Lieut. Williams, as a political society, to unite in patriotic bonds the then divided soldiery of the garrison. It had the desired effect, and harmony prevailed where before discord threatened open rebellion. It was named the Society of Red Men, to make it as distinctively American—as the Indian was the aborigine of the continent, and his many quaint emblems and customs gave foundation for a natural and poetical ritual. Farther than this, its name in no wise connects it with the Indian race. Capt. Barker subsequently became Mayor of the City of Philadelphia, while Lieut. Williams fell in the defense of his country at Fort Erie. With the close of the war the society naturally died out. In a short time, however, it was revived in different sections of the country, by members of the disbanded garrison. Early in 1821 it began to attract considerable attention, and the various Tribes or Lodges effected a Union. A great council was soon after formed, and the political complexion of the Order entirely abolished, the ritual was reformed, and a code of uniform laws adopted. It was then made purely fraternal and benevolent, and the title "Improved Order of Red Men" adopted. Lately an unfortunate division took place, giving rise to the Independent or United Order of Red Men, which works only in the German language, while the Improved or original Order work in both German and English.

At present the Order is in a very flourishing condition, having the national headquarters at Philadelphia. The Great Council of California has its headquarters at San Francisco. California numbers thirty Tribes, and several more under process of organization. Its membership is highly respectable and substantial. The brotherhood speak in terms of warm affection of their Order.

San José has one Tribe in a very flourishing condition. Its officers and name are as follows:

Osceola Tribe No 21 (Improved Order of Red Men).—Henry Slocum, S.; Lewis Schoen, S.S.; Theo. C. Winchell, J.S.; J. Y. Brown, P.; E. P. Rowe, C. of R.; D. C. Bailey, K. of W.

SEC. 28. The defendants to said petition may appear and show cause against said petition on or before the time for the hearing thereof, or such other time as the hearing may be continued to; and upon satisfactory proof being made that the defendants have been duly notified of the pendency of said petition as herein prescribed; and upon the hearing of the allegations and proofs of the said parties, if said Court or Judge shall be satisfied that the lands, or any part thereof, are necessary or proper, for any of the purposes mentioned in said petition, then such Judge or Court shall appoint three competent and disinterested persons as commissioners, one of whom shall be selected from among the persons, if any

SEC. 29. The said Court or Judge shall appoint the time and place for the first meeting of said commissioners, and the time for the filing of their report, and may give such further time as may be necessary for that purpose, if they shall not have completed their duties. The said commissioners, or a majority of them, shall meet at the time and place as ordered, and before entering on their duties shall be duly sworn to honestly, faithfully, and impartially perform the duties imposed upon them; and any one of them may issue subpœnas for witnesses for either parties and may administer oaths; and said commissioners may adjourn from place to place, and from time to time, as may be necessary for the proper discharge of their duties.

SEC. 30. The said commissioners shall proceed to view the several tracts of land as ordered by said Court or Judge, and shall hear the allegations and proofs of said parties, and shall ascertain and assess the compensation of the lands sought to be appropriated, to be paid to the person or persons having or holding any right, title, or interest in or to each of the several tracts of land. In ascertaining such compensation they shall take the actual value of such land, and the actual value of improvements thereon, that may be wholly destroyed or rendered valueless by such appropriation; but the amount of any resulting damages that they may find from the evidence of any such person will have sustained by reason of such appropriation other than such actual value of said premises may be offset against the value of any benefit or advantage that in their opinion will accrue to him or them by reason of the opening, widening, or extending of any street or streets, lane, or alleys; and said commissioners shall, on or before the time or times as ordered by said Court or Judge, file in said Clerk's office their report, signed by them, or a majority of them, setting forth their proceedings in the premises; and they may include all of said tracts in one report, or may make several reports including one or more of said tracts of land, if the said Court or Judge should so order, or they shall deem it proper.

SEC. 31. In case there are adverse or conflicting claims to the compensation or damages assessed for any tract of land, or any right, title, or interest therein, thus sought to be appropriated, the parties thus asserting such claim shall present the same by petition to the Court or Judge after the report of the commissioners shall have been filed, and said Court or Judge shall proceed to determine the same; and in such case said city, instead of paying to any of said parties so contesting, may pay the amount of such compensation to the Clerk of said Court to abide the order of the Court or Judge in said proceedings; and the city shall not be liable for any of the costs caused by the adjudication of such conflicting claims. The said city, or any of said defendants, if dissatisfied with the report, may within twenty days after the time for the filing of said report, and after ten days notice to the parties interested move to set aside the report and to have a new trial as to any tract of land, and upon good cause shown therefor, the said Court or Judge shall set aside the report as to such tract of land, and may recommit the matter to the same or to other commissioners, who shall be ordered to proceed in like manner as those first appointed; but such matters shall not be more than once recommitted to [the] commissioners.

SEC. 32. Upon the expiration of twenty days after the filing of said report or reports, or at such further time as may be appointed therefor, if the motion and notice shall not have been made and given as aforesaid, and if the proceedings of said commissioners appear to have been correctly and properly done, the said Court or Judge shall confirm such of said reports and certify the same thereon.

SEC. 33. Each of said reports, and the certificates thereon, upon the compensation therein named being paid, shall be recorded in the Recorder's office of the said county by said city. The said Court or Judge may make all such orders as may be necessary or proper in special proceedings provided for in this Act, and shall cause the pleadings and proceedings to be amended whenever justice may require it to be done, and shall direct the manner of service of all orders and notices not herein specially provided for; costs in such special proceedings shall be taxed by the Clerk at the rates prescribed in the fee bill for said county in civil actions, and shall be paid by said city, except in case where a defendant shall move for a new trial; and the compensation assessed by the commissioners shall not be increased more than ten per cent. upon the previous assessment, in which case the defendants shall pay the cost.

SEC. 34. Upon the report of the commissioners being filed for record as above provided for, and upon the payment or tender of the compensation and cost as provided for in this Act, the real estate or the right, title, or interest therein described in such report shall be and become the property of said city to be used as a public street or streets and appropriated to public use.

SEC. 35. Within thirty days after the final confirmation of the report or reports, the Common Council may, if there be no money in the treasury to be appropriated for such purpose, and if they deem such an amount of expenditure necessary for the general interest of the city, provide for the raising and paying of such sum or sums as may have been finally awarded by the said Court or Judge to any person or persons for property appropriated as aforesaid, as specially directed and provided for in foregoing sections of this charter; and if said tax shall, as required, be voted for, levied, collected, and received into the city treasury, the same shall, upon the order of the Common Council, be paid by the City Treasurer to the County Clerk for the person or persons entitled thereto, the said Treasurer taking the said Clerk's receipt therefor, and the same shall be deemed and taken as a payment to such person or persons, and shall be as effectual for all purposes whatever as if the said sum or sums of money had been paid personally to each of the persons entitled thereto.

SEC. 36. The said Court or Judge shall at the time of the payment of the said sum of money to the said Clerk, or at such other time or times as may be ordered, direct and order the same to be paid over to the person or persons who shall, upon satisfactory proof appear to be entitled thereto, and shall at the time direct that any and all persons having or holding possession of any of the lands or premises described in said report, yield and deliver up the same to the city, and the said Clerk, on the demand of the City Attorney, shall issue a writ commanding the Sheriff to remove all persons therefrom.

SEC. 37. The minutes of the proceedings had before such judge shall be entered by said Clerk in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the proceedings were had before said court in term time.

May seventeenth, eighteen hundred and sixty-one, and all acts amendatory of or supplemental thereto, and all provisions and acts made applicable thereto, in so far as the same pertains to the raising of revenue by ad valorem taxation, and so far as said acts are not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby made applicable to any and all proceedings for raising revenue by ad valorem taxation for city purposes, as heretofore provided in this act; provided, that the Common Council shall have power by ordinance to restrict the operation of any of the provisions of the acts mentioned in this section as it may seem to them proper.

SEC. 75. The Common Council shall have the power to fix the amount, and the mode of paying the compensation of all officers performing services for the city in collecting delinquent taxes; provided, that the County Clerk and Sheriff shall have the same fees in such cases, and to be paid in the same way, as are allowed them in suits for the collection of taxes levied for State purposes.

THE NEWLY IMPROVED VENITIAN AWNING

For Stores, Hotels and Residences.

This awning can be applied to the outside of any window, without marring the woodwork or detracting aught from the beauty of the architecture. By the appliance of the new Patent Slide, the awning is made to come low enough to shade the longest window to the bottom, thereby protecting everything in the room from the sun, allowing a free ingress of air through the open window and giving abundance of light.

Manufactured from different kinds of goods. colors, and stripes, according to price and fancy, by the sole proprietors and manufacturers.
